

"Boost your web site in the search engines by using your competition's site against them."

If you are serious about getting the full advantage of the Internet and what it can do to build your web site traffic, you already know how important the search engines are.

An exciting new service called PageRank Jet Fuel uncovers how your competition is getting their high search engine rankings in the first place. But more importantly, it also shows you exactly how to take that information, duplicate those settings on your own site pages, and even surpass them!

Here's how it works...

PageRank Jet Fuel analyzes the highest ranked web sites in the top search engines using your desired keywords and search phrases. We focus on the sites that you want to beat and specifically look for what makes those sites so 'appealing' to those search engines.

This process involves finding and analyzing hundreds of pages for the web site or sites you want to surpass. Each of those pages is then analyzed for specific data including how often your desired keywords or phrases appear on a page - even where they are located on each of the target pages in the high ranking sites.

A unique bonus for you is that this process often uncovers search terms that you aren't currently using on your site, but which your competition is using effectively on theirs.

During this research we also analyze the links to and from your high ranking target sites - the ones you want to out-do. Later we'll use this info to set up a strategic search engine linking system for your site that dramatically enhances your overall page ranking results.

Everyone knows the importance of getting links, but few realize that the wrong links can literally have your site banned from the search engines. We know exactly how to set up this type of system so that getting banned is never an issue.

This and other important data is compiled into a series of Excel spreadsheets for analysis of what makes those pages work so well in the search engines. And once that final information is defined, all that's left to do is to reapply the new and improved formula to the web pages on your site.

Once applied, we guarantee your pages will start moving up the search engine rankings, but it gets even better when the boosters kick in and take it to the next level. That's when your site starts to outrank web sites that have literally owned the top search engine positions for years!

Now you can stop wondering what it takes to get your site moving up through the search engines AND stop throwing your money away on random and generic site improvement experiments.
